Fear of writing? Spose that's a fear if everything. Look I'm on an iPhone and I don't feel like spell checking everything again. I hope this gets easier with an iPad. This is a life report, since I suspect my feelings right now in nostalgia or reflection might be of value. So the point is to write. A lot of things to be afraid of here- grades. Judgment. This will never be Astor as good as what I used to write. This is the epicenter of fear- I can't even out anything down on paper. And I said his to myself in a litany of self-deception as I penned two completely different drafts of that hulking wretch of a project, gray state. Did you ever get sick of hearing about it? Christ. Poor miserable fuck, no one believes you. Except you know for all the people who did, and still do. I suppose confession is important on some psychological level but perhaps this will spoil the tone for every following entry. Gah. Negative nancy, got to soul yourself to see. Anyway. Strengthen the skills, branch the mind, open what is closed. Tendrils. Do you see them? What use!

Of space.

Understand: your life will me if you do not lose the fear. So write every day an expand your craft, god, the world still goes unwritten, and there are no end to the possibilities or combinations, so write all the time. This thing will make it soneasy. But u suppose auto correct will ruin much ere the day ends.

So don't stress about what comes out. Just fire it open and wire every day now. So what happened the past week? Rani said some things . Gross beef and awful fries. I have been telling her the story of the werewolf. She calls it a whirlwhirlf. Hats been going well, meeting a lot of the neighbors. Paleo on walks. He's a great boy, still a lad and growng handsome. He's been sleeping in me all day. Not in but this dipshit program can't select letters to delete. Ok his is getting hard, lion king is on. Rani wants chips you know.

Today is about parenting I would guess. Learning I balance the stupidity of individual drive over the inherent needs of a young human. The best side is winning. To see the nonsens if ego-driven parenthood: shallow rules if imposition and negation: to service no one but the rules themselves, distant as Allah. To leave leftover nuts on the table, the chocolate an other desirable contents left on the tabletop, only almonds and a few walnuts. And they are left there to serve Asa buffer for the next snack, "finish your nuts!" The imperial trumpet of justice. But this contest of will over the forgotten nuts goes unnoticed by rani who goes about her long long day without ever knowing, while the leftover sour of the old almonds foul my mood. My god. But to have a happy child! One satisfied within her orientation toward the rules, and to find a challenge if the rules a withy my contest for a budding personality but instead a wrecked wretch, buried in emotional distance. Komel has forgiven me. I may not,

Doesn't matter what gets written as long as it happens. Get the crap out now. Been working at morse Kode, which is the best possible job I could have in my field of freelance videography. Come to think f it how the fuck was that even on my radar? Just a way to make money that got out of control after costing a lot of money. Well it made possible many things, including this skill set which is earning me 75 an hour. I forget that I have a ton of valuable skills and no time to become an expert at everything. I've ha enough. So I get to work with a lot of self important thirty something coiffed poufs who breeze around being polite. What a prison! It's really hard to put up with even though I'm making more by April there than I've made since the army. Derrp. It's been a learner. Hence the journaling again. Inns be a writer, or something! Is that a job? Well whatever you're a filmmaker now with a ton of experience and skills and understanding. But damn son it's time to get off the pot! Finish your shit and git to la. Paleo scratched rani today. Rani likes to hide his toys so he chews hers an then has to be punished. She sets these traps for him. Bizarre warfare, paleo doesn't understand at all. He grows, she grows, I shrivel and look somewhere else. I see so many things to fix, but it happens at such a crushingly slow pace. But for now the money is giod. It could have been a far sight worse, after ten house move. I am learning to feel gratitude, and a etter understanding of the size if the privilege pile I sit on. We. What a privileged family, and we hang out with all these bums. How's come no one checks you out and says naw bra, you're doing it wrong. I shudder to think all their messes are bigger than mine so mine go unnoticed. What a psychological wasteland.

Hanging out in Edina, making notes for a gs climax rewrite tonight. Seems like a juvenile approach to a film- see these rich people? watch what happens when we take their shit away! Oh well get it done at least. People like it that way. Leave finesse for hen your experience is tempered enough to actually make it. Burrpp. Anyway, other things. Still In a existential fetal position, but getting through it. Doesn't matter what you have as it turns out, if you're not happy then you're just not. Pretty dumb.

It's nice being freelance. Komel is my recon element, tells me how traffic is, and sometimes I have a long morning. Paleo is getting his morning nap on my lap, so I'm stuck with my journal. Morning journal? Not ideal; I haven't had any thoughts yet. How about feedback? Well every morning I wake up a little pressured, lots to do, already knowing what I want to get done will not be, and I have to put up with things for the time being. Too negative. Not enough life happening. Although thugs are better. Started crossfit with Komel last night. Girl kicks some ass, going faster by the end. She's gonna grow up well.

It's komels night to put rani away, and she's giving hell. Squeals and nonsense, desperate laughter to pretend bedtime isn't upon her. Poor Komel. Today was a hard day - full work docket and then a bad bad crossfit session. Fuckin bear crawls and stuff in body armor. We're sore. She took a long bath while I cleaned up and did dishes.

REDACTED. My first response is some weird disinterest. Dumb! Another bad habit I caught. So I got the bed all ready to go. It's only 10 so it's full body massage night, oh man she's gonna love it! Nice and easy after that. But it's been a while since I perfumed the bed. Got some ambient music going, gonna give her the whole treatment, oils and stuff. Keep her young.

REDACTED

Rani's desperate laughter. God, I don't even look up. No help from me. Set up for the turnaround. But oh, there she goes. She's seen the room by now. Time to put my shit in gear. REDACTED

Every time you don't do something or avoid something, remind yourself oh yeah I'm not afraid of that anymore. Know and embrace your achievement. Live without fears, obtain one objective, know one purpose and everything in your way is something to challenge and refine you. Love and live happy. Make the best decisions. Think only as fast as you feel, and a little faster than what you write. Otherwise you can't keep anything. Know and respect your talent, hone it with humility and passion. Heal. All things in cycles. The real challenge will begin now. It's not that I'm not ready. It's the opposite. No challenge has yet bested me, but I fear heavyweight championship. But I need not climb the ladder like others. There are a thousand roads that lead to Rome. Don't look to the side at the achievements of others and find yourself in contest. We all want the same thing, and why not? Spare your hatred. Live not in anger. These are the brothers of fear. Don't be consumed. Live freely, reverse the flow. Who says it would not be magnificent? Good things are going to happen, and you must accept this. Awake in hope. Accomplish. You can always imagine a way to stop yourself, but this time, don't.

It sat there for a long time until nobody remembered who put it there. Eventually even the dogs forgot about it. It wasn't that it was an ugly rock. Whoever put it there had a purpose, certainly - after all, it wasn't anything a truck and at least two men hadn't put there on ourpuse. Here at the end of the driveway. Huron street's discreet residents had a different experience than the owner of the driveway, which was long and crept back into the trees, leading a sinister path through neglected trees, up steps, and into a black house, through the gray rooms and ultimately to the room looking west, back to the road, where the man no one had seen for years looked far to the end of the driveway to where the troll sat waiting.

Just thinking today how in hohenfels 2005 I was moving a 120s bipod legs trough knee deep snow with a couple of blundering incompetents or so I thought them, for a moment I was yelling at meat, a hopeless expression of locked up mind stuck among fools, "not that way, not that way, why aren't you listening I've taken physics!" After the legs tangled and I had to do the heavy lifting to fix it, the physics thing caught on for a while. I hated the scorn, but was relieved tat one of my first "things" in the platoon wasn't worse! "Well cowleys taken physics. I don't know man, talk to Crowley he's taken physics." Man, if I were a man, strong an smart but without the ego bluster that went unchallenged to myself., a fear of weakness at all times so I pricey strength without realizing maybe it's actual strength. I have a hard time seeing the good in myself. That's why I've wen trying to watch old accomplishments again and remember where I've come from. Back in 05 all of these challenges lie ahead of me ad there I was, one PFC frustrated with the consequences of his choices not to go to college. By the way, that one had a lot to do with fear as wrll. Didn't want to experience those kinds of things. Wasn't altogether frustrated with shook as I recall, but the promise of freedom must have been alluring. I remember it now. Green June. Then what? Who knew, but who cares we are young and beautiful and heirs apparent. How many onus focused, built something for tat 30yr wisdom turnaround? We will see. The light will change, but it's still beautiful. I feel a need for a synchronization with the past. Perhaps I will do that. And one day te script will be done and I will have peace. Then some love into the doc, and that will happen. It's time to ficus. Bring it closer to the surface. Passion for experience. And what a black hole I have left behind me!

Understand: it doesn't take long to deny life long enough to the point where there is not enough I draw upon for momentum. Life I happiness. It is the point, the dog stretching for a better please in the sun. Not something to be delayed indefinitely while you annihilate yourself to get back to it. The only and best gift we can give our young ones is to discern tier talents and guide them in the right path. Clarity and resonance of purpose and pitential- we provide the circumstance an opportunity. Every kid must have one - not rock star realities, but some unique tone of perfect unification an purpose. What is it? What's mine?

Flugga said ince: after a fight where I roundly best him. Made his nose bleed. "Crowley fights himself." And again people seek a way to get at me- even though I won and was likely to win again. I fight myself, denying my own happiness but spinning my wheels in the mud with effort and achievement in my chosen field but nothing now will Change the fact that I Weill deny every moment if happiness in the service of mindless effort. Heaving whomping wide swinging effort because look I'm a tough bastard. Look, see? Now please don't mess with me. Please leave me alone. And I've gotten too far in my career for my self hate to exist simultaneousky. It stays and I keep a quiet reflectiv life but no flashy achievment, eventually swallowed by the economy. I fight my own potential with my potential. Slow down. It's easy. Life and success can't be hard. Those idiots have it. Now put this story together like a man. Move outward and forward and achieve. A man awoke one day fully alive to find himself locked in the expressionless glass case of his body. Events experiences phenomena carried no meaning, no nourishment for the soul. An automaton existence, where once was wit, warmth, and wonder.

A note: shoring up riches against the fear of financial failure has not gained an ounce of confidence from it. Learn early: these things have no meaning. Meaning is in moments, not the facts of calculation, mortgaged security and stability. Have now, be now. Save and prepare but live today.

Well he just did not care for that one bit. He sat rigidly as if nothing was not ever would be comfortable like it used to e, and he gazed at the far wall, careful not to look at me. I spoke: why you're angry about the sneeze! Oh my goodness buddy I am so sorry. I wanted to warn you but it's hard when you have to sneeze yourself. I tried my best. I hope you can forgive me. He turns to look near but not quite at me, then sure enough, there he goes off to his kennel, to out himself to bed. Little fucker was pissed about the loud sneezes! But not one minute later the site door clatters with his emergence and he comes over to me, jumps back up on the couch and stares into my face, demanding an apology. He's now snoring next to me. Simply must do a better job journaling. It's not hard, just write something down. New plan: you'll just write down the things you did each day, then you'll likely be following up with how you felt about them. So what's your life lately? Finished the scripts first draft, planning an LA trip to meet people. Big people. The things I am receiving are not you ally gifted first time nobodies. So what I have - it's very important to understand it. I built it, and new to understand the accomplishment or I will never stop building tinkering living in shadows. I am always engineering a quiet comfortable back door for myself, so I don't have to achieve. But instead, be brave. Face fear. All signs and wonders are in your side tonight sweet thing. So sci it up acknowledge your gifts and take the stage. It'll be hard and a little scary, but you are equal to the task. You'll make your mark, and how many first time buttholes get to say that?

So lately - been dealing with mom. Al was in town for her surprise birthday. Missed her flight a few times do we housed her. Spent a few mornings this week chatting at Perkins and discussing writing, and the possible existence of a Crowley genetic ability of hyperfocus and efficiency in work, and how this process will eventually scavenge the body's desire and happiness, skill sets and interests, and consume all passion ad a tribute to the work, as if it were a vociferous black hole sucking energy and we are merely competent enough to manage this burden for Ny amount of time. Careful child, out there are the monsters. Joe Seaton is in yoen. It's been fun connecting again. This week I met with Danny too. La is in te cards of us all. Oh also I have been reading how to win friends and influence people and I am determined to Make it my own secret recipe and see it through.

Today I'm getting ready for our big trip. But after writing. Did you know yesterday I started compiling old notes and began mind maps for 8 new films? Killer. Gotta pick one and begin research and passionate development. I get thirst would come together quickly, or 0/1 or over qualified. Anyway, exciting. I'll go put thirst together.

Made the trip to tx today. It's good to see k's family again. Went to crickets, brazos, downtown area, all of our old spots - distant memories, never built on or expounded because there's a kid here to roll right over any time k and I would have spent together as adults in love. Just slipping away to play foosball and pool, driving past Baylor to go to crickets, all I could do was watch Komel in her place, not mine, and finding SUV interest and passion and affection there. Then we come back and it's just rani's demands and needs. Not her fault, but holy Christ, I can see without obstruction the life we would have had together if it were just me and my love Komel. Evil thoughts maybe, but being dishonest to myself about the sinking sadness I get knowing I am living in a prison won't do anybody any good either. My needs and wants are modest. My passion for Komel is absolute and pure. But there's this thing, this weeping hurting hungry needing thing that is going to be a permanent block to our youth and happiness, and the life of magic an love k and I might have had is lost forever. God bless Komel. Right bac to being a supportive mommy, knowing that every time we try to find a moment to ourselves, well get pulled back to this child's dark reality.

It's hard to grow up and lay down your life for a child when all you wanted was some time to be alive with your wife. The army took a year, and then right into the abyss with a child. Time to die and realize I will only have that time when we are old and tired an she has has her way with us for 20 years. But goddamn it it fucking hurts

Met with Mike Boggio and Mike O'Donnell at the Grove in LA, spectacular meeting, and we are all moving forward with GS production. You need to remember this because you told yourself that the outcome of this meeting would be a mechanical switch- good meeting means it's time to reevaluate your relation to your skills and adopt a more becoming attitude and ego. Well it happened. It's a dream man, and you made it. By all accounts. 2 weeks, an option agreement. You fucking made it. You are the professional you set out to be. You did a good job talking to these guys. They liked you. It's the start of something. You need to know this because by tomorrow it's all going to seem like hangover memories. Conjured Randall something or other out of nowhere. Rat faced Asian bully, called me an artist once and I was just desperately happy to be fsvored by a bully. Even then, desperate to please. To be validated by perceived authority, and how strange to remember these things, these stories locked away. Remember this time as a source of inspiration; because these people are just under the surface and you can become them. Jake, Franklin, lee. You cut yourself out of those memories, but there's understanding in them.

Today's office!

I need to stop thinking about my time underwater as a failure. It was a fuckig laser beam! Concentrated focus, vision, concentration, direction , and now I have the best job in the world that I can even imagine! Screenwriting? Are you kidding me? Create worlds to move and inspire, no boss, no commute, just a winder full playful creative brain. Freedom complete. To read and to write, and to be snuggled into the film scene. The best in the world. To move and inspire. The messages of god itself. I can channel it with the most sophisticated tools of mass information ever devised by man. What power! What power I have. And I creates the world my energy and focus imagined. And all the bad stuff was literally the consequence of sacrifice. And what a cost. But I'm back now, years and years ahead of schedule, to move and inspire, I need to be move and inspired, to play, to laugh and love and create and foster and be fully alive - if I am, so will my writing, and yes tempered with the experiences of war. A writer above all others, a wealth of experience and above all, the soul of a learner and pilgrim, to absorb vast amounts of information and to process it into root meaning with such monumental precision, what a gift. All I can do in life is channel the beauty. To find it in all things and to share it, to how it, to guide the viewer in my skilled hands as only the master dramatist can. But I have come back to life carrying the sword if the gods. I have done it, the thing I set out to do. And the Life I have now is my reward. What a life! All day in May, sun and exercise and yard work and later a perfect first pass dissection of a fabulous film. The secret of life, of communication between humans. In my hand. Yes I suffered, but the meaning of it all is this: the gift of insight. And the skill of delivery. Simultaneous coordination of my strong left brain and my strong right brain. Abandon all fear and look only to the positive, to inspiration and ferslessness. You will have the thing you seek, but only after you can accept the rewards. The bounty if the earth is much, and it needs only a little watering. And one man laboring to nurture te gifts he has, in alignment with his outpose, complex and divine as afforded him by the history of labor of other men, to achieve the thing for which he is intended. If hr were to dedicate his life and his energy to this, how great the reciprocated reward. The world is fenerous, but you must also give generously.all things all matter are but tools that you cannot keep and cannot take with you. There is only alignment, only beauty in the moment in life and wing present in it in total awe and peace and worship and grstitude- there is nothing else to be valued about the world of men, and nothing can create it but yiu, and what wonderful tools at your disposal. All things coalesced. In a universe of violence and explosion of energy and gravity thy comprise all things, in the range of possibility that in an alternate universe you an I are anything from punk blobs of dumb slime forever or far more likely , we are nothing at sll. But instead, instesd, against all odds, we are us.

Your philosophy on working out. It's merry the will bring forced into the body, to occupy it, to bring the attention into the environment at deeper levels. But it's easy to buy into the feelings of physical reward and go too far, levels of fitness beyond reasonable application. Sink too deep. In all things balance, and you will find peace. That's why you do straps, making it more about the muscle than about the weight. In weightlifting, who wins? Well it's ultimately the weight that gets to decide how it's going to be worked, by communicating with gravity and limiting the practical range of motion, bending your body's kinesiology to the weight and not the other way around. Try straps, be present, but don't bulk where it's going to weigh you down.

Then I saw him work the charm on me- all the same skills I'm learning about, like we contact and name repetition and honest and direct questions, no impositions. Name is Blair, maybe Blair shepherd, looks half Syrian, tall thin intense. Shoots a 300 blackout shorty ar and what looks like an old glock 17. Jammed all the time, but his poise and performance never faltered. Works closely with QSI. I wanted to talk more, to study the adroit handling of every thing, and even at the day to remember my name and a direct farewell, to know that he would remember me next class if it came to that, my god to have such command of life! So present, and life is not a shriveled introspective thing buried deep, but to live fully, energy thrust outward and into others, and it draws us to see this radiance.

Efficiency- if a thing is calculated to be too difficult, it is skipped and another task conjured. The thing is left. Things like up. Efficiency feeds - finding other things in life that are not effective or cost effective or practical as needed. It is dissolved, the energy recycled and sent to more calculation, more focus, more scrutiny. Things like my daughter wanting to play. Things like a true passion for music. Things like friendships and holidays and fun. All the things of life swallowed by the needs of the dead. Because the end goal of pure edficiency is stasis. I think at my core, my thought processing uses an analytical reaction that favors ease simplicity and comfort. It's very efficient overall, but abnormalities radiating outward manifest into odd personality quirks. Everything is an argument-based, defense-oriented response to stimuli with patterns of unintended sharpness or even hostility. The inner core remains busy interpreting and decoding new threats every microsecond. New experiences patter on a hard autopilot shell. A total implosion of personality, and a powerful one. The air of self importance. Resistance to change. Resistance to proximity, intimacy with others. Nearly every piece of new information that does not come from a trusted comfortable source is almost always perceived as threatening. Incoming attacks imaginings by my fearful core, bolstered by as many outward shows of confidence as can be applied (tough guy army weight lifting talented smart funny).... Without breaking character or breaking a sweat or breaking down. New information is not retained in a state fear- this is conditioning. So when the basic state of a human is at core fear based the only result is compounded fear based defensive behaviors. Conditioned deeper and deeper into Hesiod patterns until the real you, the one who likes exploring and playing and sing happy, is buried beneath a mountain of destructive habits.

0/1 constitutes a grasping of a fundamental core of being that is 0 or 1, fear or love. And knowing what this means- how your soul receives and sends information. How close to yourself can you get? How much deeper of an understanding than to know at the root value of the decision making process which is now completely automated is either good or bad, and then in knowing that, to understand why are those parameters applied? Do you have to remain bad? Fearful? Is this all there is, it can it be reversed? Can new behavior patterns be built, new values created, clear the clutter out so new information can be received new experiences had in a rush if feeling, to be present at the apex of experience that you are right now- somewhere, not sure, but I got an idea where I come from and another idea where I'm going; so let's make that hapoen.

The thing on my mind this morning. Fear and love, opposites, negative positive. Lately I've been feeling a loss of vision, drive, energy, ability. I'm adrift in a wash of indecision, weakness, vulnerability... And terrible fear that this is my home now. The warm gust of love and creativity and confidence were mine for a while, but now their treasures are gone. No gas in the tank, and I still have miles to go. I feel abandoned, lost, hopeless. Products perhaps of a total loss of the effects of love, which I had used carelessly, with abandon, until utter depletion - leaving me now with cold hard data. I see the effects and benefits accrued by my labor, and indeed all my physical skills remain open to me. What then is the problem? If I can have everything I want it means to me not a thing, from what then might I create meaning? Whatever it is has to be trained, regressed, because I am lost without a compass and it could be that no help is coming.

I've been cut off from automation. I feel an abrupt intelligence behind this, something that cares and knows the higher plan - knows that my personality is at odds with the world I want and needs correction. And the only way to do that is to go back to the basics. Crawl my way out. Earn back and forge meaning out of.

Forcibly take vigorous joy out of your moments. Meet with and live at the place where you and the world connect. Fill your vessel with life and energy and explode outward to meet with take interest in and interact with other people. That's where the learning happens.

So take these signs as what they are: a depletion of free energy.

Everything you get now will be learned. Every failure and victory from now on will be earned. The surge carried you to where you needed to go. But now the rest is up to you.

There's something about me that is acutely self critical. The morning after any social happiness is experienced the mind is abuzz with a thousand reports - you made a fool of yourself didn't you? Didn't you? What about this? Dd you check this?

I can become lost in the social experience like anyone else, but the slower calculated mind absorbs it all and it is thoroughly digested by morning. Desperate. Desperate you see, to self incriminate and self scrutinize. Well, is there truth to it?

Maybe there's a balance that I can create. Some sort of AAR to reflect. Anything I should do differently? I dunno, this time seems pretty good. Got wines and dined by Wayne at a steakhouse in Burnsville. Road my bike in the downpour, threw on a shirt and got two huge beers and a steak! Chatted Wayne up for two hours, ended very favorably, called up Danny and rob to conference call about GS. While riding my bike home drunk. Them came home to komel, got clean got high, REDACTED. That pic was from Friday, for which there may be a missing entry. I'm a little weirded out, feeling a little off balance. What a good day, did tons of yard work and generally had a full and productive day, but something is really souring me up. Texted Mike B about Buddhism, excited to reach out on common grounds, and received a rude condescending response. I don't know if it was intentional, but it fuckin' scuffed me the wrong way that's for sure. It's got me riled and with no green stuff in the house I have no way to chill out. Gotta land the plane manually. Am I some country hick to him? He's from fuckin' Detroit. We are both Midwest boys, so what's with the attitude? I hope it's my imagination because that is going to sour me on next week's meeting and throw me off unless I learn to deal with it. Supposed to be partners in this. Jesus. Ok, just meditate and focus and make the feeling go away. He can think what he wants but I won't let it stop me from landing this contract.

So much good stuff happened today and yesterday, but I'll be damned if this didn't take the puff out of all of it.

You met Sean and his daughter Carlie - they came over to play, hang out. Earlier you were hanging out with Danny and Joe and Joe's

Also, I had a thought about the fussy little accountant who is always so eager to show me my flaws.

Well, it's that same calculation that is refining you and putting you on top. It shows you who your friends and enemies are. It's an engine of calculation and insight. So don't turn it all off, don't get dumb, stay sharp, don't trust so deeply. Alcohol turns that calculation on yourself. You have not heard him any other time except the morning after drinking, so make a note.

I grew up as a young adult, fast and jar forged in combat situations always determined to move forward in life toward my passion. I have always been a lover - one person, my girl, who is everything to me. Then an illegal kidnapping stop loss and unplanned pregnancy prevented me from ever experiencing newlywed life with my soulmate (something I can now say for sure 6 years later). Robbed of this and forced to wear a new dad smile, bullied by society into a mental disorder - kids are miracles. Yeah big miracle. Vampires, every one, and men have no way, no language, no forum to express the growing understanding that life sucks with kids. If I'm going to be honest I hate every minute. Dragging around the house imprisoned by a whining pink shit who hates me and scowls at me every chance she gets - even though these private thoughts stay private and I don't hit her or shame her and I try my best in all things. I really try. And I die every day, knowing that my life and desires that survived the war will ultimately be destroyed by this situation. I'm trying to be honest with myself because I don't know how else to understand what's happening. Society doesn't welcome this attitude - because dads have to be masculine and manly and fun and independent - and also sensitive and caring and sweet because kids are a joy and a man is supposed to love that he can't do anything for himself anymore. Breeders run the propaganda. And you can't find out if you're supposed to be a father until you have one because there's no acceptable way to talk about this without getting speared by the baby loving sentiment that dominates parenting discourse.

I have no way out of this.

This is it.

And if I can't resolve this in myself I don't know how it will manifest in a way that will fuck her up forever. At the root of it it's not about her. It's about the sinking despair she brings into my life, taking and taking because she's alive and has emotional needs and it's not her fault but it doesn't change anything.

Maybe the best day ever. How? Well I'll tell you. Snap up at 530, meditate drink water eat a banana prep a workout make up a workout stretch crush the workout, back in with breakfast rani hygiene and a pleasant morning off to Joanne's- dressed to kill and with the days work in hand. Komel looked great, like some Paki spice you've heard about but never had. We go to caribou- breeze right through without buying anything! Settle behind a patio table, where the mornings online work an reading is insides without hurry. I even made a static and dynamic stretch plan. Then to eBay to ship off mayb $300 in bx kit, eating my pay. Went home around 9:30, chatting happily. Komel got into a skimpy bikini while I got into ball shorts and sprites around the neighborhood, new abs rippling and oily (coconut oil is better for sun protection). Come back to Komel, laugh and then Chris peck called- the stock was in. So we went over there and Komel came with. We chatted up Chris and Sean and traded 100 in cash from the pile on my dresser for a different kind of green that would also live on my dresser. Went home, and in ten minutes Komel secured a probable 6mo client and I conjured a great scene for white dwarf. I told it to her with enthusiasm. She liked it, and then we went to bed and talked about our velocity and admired her beautiful physical bodies we were being given and then

REDACTED

That was about ten minutes ago.

Somewhere in Afghanistan I dug in my heels and stopped learning. I said nope this is the way I've got to live now. And I haven't learned much since except trade skills, pulling with me from the force of my explosion of self determination all those around me, who wonder at my velocity and only try to tag along. And of course, a particle going light speed does not notice his velocity either. And into the fire went the passion itself, till I was a skeleton of desire, the exterior crumbling because the crew had long abandoned ship. My soul was abandoning my body, in which I was trapped in a pattern of locked behavior, forever unable to adapt. Until at the final moment, I don't know when; I failed. My fuel ran out. But the moment carried me along into duties I could no longer care about. But in that last moment there was salvation. And since then I have been on a reverse course to health wealth and wisdom. Something answered. Something was there, is there, is me. And every time I lift my hand to achieve desire, the world around me springs to attention and I have to but speak and the new world is manifested before me. A new body, excellent health, happiness, and in the absence of something more permanent, a slow and steady growth of wealth. Wisdom. Here in the stage. An understanding. I am happy again, if I ever was.

The brave aim high, always eventually crashing low again to the attentive observance of me in the middle. But the artist in me drives me forward, to brave the lows in search of the heights, if only to contribute to the overall experience of man, risking all I have to oblivion at a moment's notice.

So the rest of the day goes like this: we go pick up rani and Joanne SOURS the day with a demand for an overdue payment! Wow! But we pocket that like adults and go to centennial or a beautiful walk in the park, followed by dinner at the tavern. Dude! The order took an hour and then got lost, so we ended up getting our meal comped - bottomless fish and chips and two Guinnesses free! Left a big tip and a nice note. Definitely been applying the principles. We got rani ice cream and went home.

Paleo had made a mess - ripping off rarity's head and apple jack's ears and a ton of other things. His first time left out of his kennel. Our mistake but I still had to punish him (we just made friends again, circle of life).

And then Joanne. I looked at the contract to see the damage. Impossible! Incredible! I would never pay it. And even more- it wasn't in my contract. A loophole! Victory! But what, am I gonna be able to take care of rani starting now? Ruin my vacation? Make an enemy? I needed to rethink this.

Well shit. Ain't I been reading books about this? I turned this late night crisis into an opportunity. To end my day by defusing this situation. Against Joanne, our formidable former corrections officer daycare provider. Yikes! I was pretty nervous. Made some notes and went to the basement to meditate to slow the lurching of my heart. This was a new kind of battle.

I called her up - it was late oh boy was she sore to hear it was me! But I complimented and gushed, gave examples and reiterated. Then I got around to it: drop the fee. He won over yet, but now I was open to explain position and did a damn good job of making her see our side - got her saying yeah you're right and you guys have been great. She opened up about her financial worries etc and about how her son Josh is a sophomore at school for electrical engineering! We got to chatting. He's brilliant already! Showing a bit of interest got her gushing, and it changes her attitude. She agreed to defer to our last week's deposit instead. So now I don't have to write a check. The conversation ended chattily and in good positive spirit, and it's like not only was the pressure of the situation removed but I felt better warmer like something inside was glowing. I turned something bad into something good - not just another conquest.

And with that I'm gonna get ripped out of my gourd and watch WALTER MITTY with Komel in our basement theater. Cha! Good night!

I'm supposed to be going there this morning but it took a wrench of will to realize I don't want to and probably shouldn't be wasting my time with them. For so many reasons. All they do is wonder what I'm up to and pitch to me their rehashed version of a GS oriented workout boot camp that I had in mind all along. Fine, fine. I'll hire you. But they're not talking about hiring. No it's some kin of implied inclusion into my energy they want. Adam jumping up and down waving his big monkey arms elling you're my meal ticket. Sean says for 50k a year I can HAVE him, to wrk and build sets.

Why is it my responsibility to carry all these people?? Jesus! I'm sick of the burden, being responsible for so many peoples futures.

The people in k's life are the same way. Coworkers Watching her energy, pathetically reaching and mewling and then stop trying, resigning themselves to their shitty work and shitty lives. Our parents both - don't even understand us. We are so far in la la land thst no one I know is recognizable.

Go to the west coast make new friends clear all these yucky marriages to everyone who ever gave you a hand on the film. They need to find their own lives. You need to clear out and make room for new relationships.

Tomorrow I go to seize my empire. This will be my emerging from the chrysalis. Born in blindness, hardened in terror and suppression, and polished finally with unconditional love, I am ready to cast off the fear that buried me here and rise out, becoming who I was born to be.

This act of courage will define me. Komel comforted me expertly where she found me curled in the bathroom this afternoon, crying in fear. If anyone else had done what you have, it wouldn't have been such an amazing journey, she said. You're brave she said.

Courage is what happens after fear is acknowledged and then managed. Fear is a very base thing, a sniveling dark thing, itself afraid. It is the negative.

Some things to remember since I already appear to be desperate to return to comfort. I think I used up my fuel stores an now I'm despondent and embryonic. But I got what I came for, hell yes. I demanded a contract and got one that night. I got all my demands an I'm prepared to fight for what I deserve in the contract. Impressed the shit out of them, I think. The doubts will return wen I go home, but leave this as a record: there's nothin to indicate that this isn't the real deal and we will move forward resolutely to victory. By victory I mean up and out of mn an into a place where things happen and move.

The doubts manifest from an internal desire for the peace and comfort, largely supplied by komel, to which I have become accustomed. You didn't do anything wrong, you kicked ass, and you even had a half dozen other successes with people you turned your charm onto. How broken I am to be reduced to such a state. To have to crawl back up the social skills ladder from the bottom rung.

Remember: frequently waking up in your body to find yourself owning the situation with the mikes or in a multi millionaire's home, for a moment quaking with panic and wondering when they'll discover your secret and call you out. You don't belong. But I belonged. I owned it. This is important information- a benchmark of success to base the rest of your endeavors from. Enough of the quiet doubts and push for the easiest way out. You went to Hollywood and grabbed the bully by the beard, and at one point you had mikeo's head spinning with possibility. I'm their most promising project.

Mike thinks I could direct. He told me at one point that i was better than he was- at producing. This from the ice man.

That was te moment you knew the meeting was yours. And you took it. Owned it. Played with them, played their game. You'll only get better from here.

This is not ego these are facts. If all "proper" shame does is serve to limit the appreciation of your experience, of what use is shame?

Listen: you know how I, or some evil accountant bastard fuck, routinely turns my power of calculation on myself, and I am forced to hear a long list of flaws and mistakes for which I am entirely culpable. Especially when I drink. But since yesterday, my long lonely day in Ia, with full knowledge, fresh experience of my victory with no signs of joy and no one to show it to anyway - I haven't found a flaw. A silent accountant, a clean audit. Well shoot, nothing to be a mope about, huh? But wait! Just today, this afternoon before a nap I realized in a flash the thing I regret. The picture! Saturday night, 3 shots of Jameson held high for toast on the progress of my movie - the picture now being passed around Facebook as a reflection of my success - who's that in the picture? Why, it's that slouching weasel fuck, brave smile and guarded posture. Why is he there, getting attention in the visible moment of my triumph? Shit! There's my regret. I was in there, in the body and the moment, damn near spent in exhaustion from my efforts to act who I was to become, but who got the victory?

He did.

Okay. I get it. Let him have the moment. But this new path is mine. And I will not let a moment - success or otherwise, happy or melancholy, pass without a present, intelligent, and positive response. Of gratitude, excitement. And positive.

That's my lesson. That brings me to the immediate understanding of myself: be who you are, and know that you are great.

My next picture will be hands wide, positive and exuberant, big smile, a projection of the meaning I wish from the moment.

Komel is tired from a full body rub down she gave me as I wrote this. Ha ha. Nap time, peace-

Haven't been very chatty lately - still in some recovery position as far as I can discern. Making habits of patience and reading. Things are great; I'm just trying to understand and make meaning of it all. To create meaning. My depression is an inability to craft meaning from experience. Nothing is good and what the hell is the point, and so on.

Avoid beer. Something in it triggers the depression echoes. Derp. But maybe wine is different - there were no after effects after last week's meeting, so maybe we can become auteurs.

There is much to do, but I despise work. Tricky part is it's only work if I think of it that way, and I'm finding it hard to change the way I think. I'm always more excited about the class when it's over, and that's when I sign up for future classes. Keeps me out of the house regularly.

Much has been happening, least of all the declining inclination to journal. It's been a hat week wth rani home - k and I can't get close, schedule is shot, and neither of us can leave the house without condemning the other to babysitting detail. Sucks butt. It's been hard to evaluate the changes we are both going through when we have to answer to the minute by minute needs of a kid.

But that in itself, that grinding presence that forces itself into our lives to be dealt wth - the failures fade and successes mount. Daily. Much of today has been a slow preparation. The universe arranged for me to fall into possession of some hallucinogens (safe and natural) and tomorrow morning I'll be embarking upon a long voyage of self discovery. I've taken my usual precautions, doing some reading and making preparations. I want it to be a good first experience - and it's fun to realize how much I fear a bad trip! As if to see my demons; the writhing mass of them, would be too much for me. Interesting. A border to be crossed later, but I can't control the wretched stuff for gods sake. But I just want to be excited and have a good time. Wonder about things. What I really like is to abandon fear and become the man I need to be for this next phase. A good father. Stronger husband, more attentive lover. Return to roles long ago stretched out and abandoned. I need to come back, the engine is restarting but I don't feel it catching sometimes.

Some fragments and messages. To write them all down all the time would be a challenge indeed! But anyway, feelings of gratitude have multiplied gifts from the universe. I've come to the idea that all I need to satisfy my wants needs and surpass the men of my line is to want stuff - to want and desire and then work hard and achieve. But first to want. To think that may be all that te sad dull men of my line really lack!

Had work this week, but got out of it. I am being trained and rested before a swirl of gs activity for whic I must be ready. So this is all time I didn't had before so I've even going a little eBay crazy trying to get stuff out the door. Boring updates I know but if I wait until I want to journal then it don't get done.

14 of the past 18 days, rani has been home, and it may take weeks more fire me to sift through the ruins of my once pristine scheduling. Careful habit setting plans dashed! I am, that is to say, Komel and I, in some weird drifting insanity barge, out friends and families along the hire line, watching us go like bewildered tourists. Connections to those tourists may be spotty. and we churn merrily into the glowering storm, stun rays set to "dumbfuck happy." God rani makes for a fiendish cyst of a fellow traveler sometimes. I don't know where he came from or what she wants. But 14 Out of the last 19 days, man - it's enough to contact with the macabre to drive anybody batshit insane.

God I can't wait for Monday. I'm closer to myself, more attuned to my behavior, but a brief look at my tendencies lately shows I am desperate for some alone time. But the barge; there's no way off.

A cool July breeze. What a fabulous month for weather. It's la weather, can you believe it? How dreamlike. Intoxicating. The air is rich and healthy, the sky soft and defused.

Sucking a bong most of the day. I don't even do as much as I should be. That's the way I feel anyway, because when I'm down there I see my problems a lot clearer. I'm a broken man. Broken indeed. I am already climbing out, but every now and then I turn and look. To see for a moment how high I have climbed. The demons of doubt gang up on me here - they know I'm at my weakest. But the veil of their insults is thin now, to the point of transparency.

They know I'm desperate, at the verge of thinking this is all madness, that my dreams are still dreams and not my reality. I have little energy left for this. And now that there is little left for my demons to feed on, they grow ravenous.

I am at the crucible of personality changeover and I feel so deeply the invisible turns of my legal team, swinging for me but taking too long, and oh god how I have been patient for success and recognition. I have borne a heavy burden for a long time to achieve this. Every little piece in its place. All along the way.

But will I wake up one day and regret the massive sell off of my gear? I don't think that's a thing I ought to value for a moment more. It will be nice to throw that bullshit away.

There's just a lot happening man. Between the kid and the option and the new script and the other 9 scripts and then all the other things normal people deal with on top. Trying to keep the engines clattering, the smokestack belching, the barge hurling along.

Something to remember. A way to change behavior as a means of wiping out the bad code. You subdivide and calculate tasks, often missing the point and wasting a lot of energy, walking around in a fog unaware of the time. You are really good at this. It controls a lot of behavior. If you can fight back, do more in a day by doing fewer things but more completely, you might make it out, see what you're like without that burnout tumor.

I guess I have to spend sometime bitching because it's not getting better. Also to have it in words may help explain something down the line. I spent a few weeks getting ready to create a new gs outline, building myself and my confidence and my approach up with positive meditation and morning habits. I had the best morning, ready to come back and get to work (I took rani myself so Komel could have some time to herself) and there's some sour fucking buzz in the house and I take one step inside my house and hear her on the phone shouting in Urdu and I just know it's all over. I know she's on the phone with we sister getting emotionally involved like we talked about. I even take her off the phone like I never do and try to warn her: we talked about this yesterday, it's over. You're not involved, stop calling them you have nothing to say. I get the stone face, she's not listening for a second. Fine. Just do your conference call downstairs; I have to work. Peace and quiet and perfect morning shot. She comes up after a few hours, just steaming with things to tell me, and I try to be supportive but she won't even accept a hug yet until she's ready. I go back to work ad she's ready 1 minute later so I stop work again and ask if she needs to talk. She says no or something, but hovers anyway. I sigh and quit my work for good because I know it's coming, and sure enough the next hour is me resolving the fucking problem and reiterating what we decided yesterday. She got her family on the phone and fucked it all up, made some wounds, made everybody cry, showcase all her insecurities and weakness and accomplished nothing. Jesus Christ. I told you and told you.

My work is fucked now. I can't even think about the gs outline, it's all confusion and emotion and frustration again. I'll have to start over in a few weeks, clear my subconscious again. Meanwhile the close connection we had, the interest in conversation and closeness and REDACTED, really interested development byproducts of become adults successfully together - well I hope it comes back because that interest is sure gone now. She didn't want to talk or stretch; just go to bed early and again fuck up all my careful scheduling (not to mention canceling out plans to hang out. I had had a few cups of coffee to prepare). I stayed up all night alone, my thoughts growing on the matter, the effects of the day finding words finally.

We are at the point where we are sharing brain space. We think the same things at the same time, and always agree and coordinate. But when she brought that fucking sticky foreign emotional mess in here it fucked it all up. It was the dumbest, most ill-counseled least attractive thing she's done in years, a stupid fucking mistake I smelled coming and warned we about minutes before she went and did it anyway. She gets up in the morning and doesn't look at me and rushes about trying to be busy with work and rani, and then without a word cancels our day plans, saying she's gonna go work instead. "I'll take rani" is good bait, she thinks. Bull shit you just want to repeat your work schedule, digress a little more.

I didn't argue. What's the point? She lost months of important personal development and is going back to work, she thinks. Sense of security. You know what we had planned? A long day together looking at pictures old movies and remembering our pasts in terms of positivity and growth, and make a love-me list. "Not a good idea today," she says, closing the door on that day and instead escapes, leaving me with an empty house, wrecked schedule, jumbled negative emotions, fucking shipwrecked outline efforts, and now a new bottle of bull shit to deal with when she decides to come home. She didn't even tell me where she's going or for how long. I didn't ask. She's doing her best to avoid eye contact, tactics from before. Why even ask.

It is such bull shit. It took us months to build our relationship to where it was yesterday morning and now it's just back to the same old childish non communication, and I don't know yet if she's going to snap out of it. Jesus Christ. Well this could have been a good day. Now I have to go find something else to do.

Just listen to me in the first place. The emotional wad you dragged into our shared space fucked up my work, and fucked up the good thing we had going. And unless this is all over tomorrow, it fucked up the whole week and instead of having fun at my 10yr reunion on Friday with my best friend and partner, we can be sad and lonely like everybody else.

The phone call of my life. An honest appreciative present confirmation from my lawyer that I am in perfect legal and material harmony with the new universe to which I am connecting, in perfect participation or non participation in further affairs as I may specifically defer. If this works I will be a rich man. If this works I will be a rich man. And the wide world awaits whatever I may do next. Jesus almighty it's all at my fingertips at the moment where the trap is set and bait is fat and the prey comes knowingly, entranced by the thing we created. My big pretend gray state empire is merely a thought in my head, and Adam stands guard with a battery of legal connections in the same firm that carries owl city, and we advance bravely to the west, to be met eagerly by new friends and allies. Completely free, to create what I want in that world or not, but rich enough to do whatever I want.

The appreciation of this moment is divine.

By the way k and I have long since made up in a flurry of emotional and sexual readjustment and advancement. We talk nonstop about for days now about who we are and where we are and where we might go. We feel roots being ripped up and out painlessly as we disconnect from everything that might hold us back. We have to focus. God I feel like vomiting, we have to focus like never before. I have been thinking of it all backwards with my family, I think. To me the split never really happened - not as a matter of denial, but I myself was in a state of bravado masking a constant fear so I guess I felt relief in suddenly counting y family among the emotionally desperate. I returned to my own strength, while expecting an admittedly broken and dysfunctional family unit to function as a core of renewal, acceptance, and love. My receiver was broken; after all, I wasn't around when it all happened, and I wasn't around for good until three years afterward. We don't understand each other at all, making my relationships with them more fleeting, weird, and distant.

I have not reached out to them in their pain because I lived in a self-imposed world of pain. And my self image was so inverted that I assumed if we were both in pain you would always be the more experienced and capable. This makes me retreat to my inner reserves, hold my own counsel, and approach others with a strange frightened fawning. I can't talk real with anyone. I don't know what it is. The army, I guess, being in not only combat but constant forced social situations - warped me. Always preserving my own personality, for five years living in a rotating battery of strangers and arbitrary authorities, constantly cautious, always violated, and upon my return my family had shattered. Yet I, in the ways in which brothers and sisters and mothers and fathers are meant to understand one another, I expected the same from them when they were not the same.

I am happy though, because at my core understanding of them even though warped, they are the golden experiences of my childhood. Good and honest people, my shining heroes. Not the gray sad specters you see now. How could this have happened?

Well how about it ladies and gentlemen, I have a readjustment issue. It wasn't measured in visible success, because that I had. In fact my work ethic and energy on film sets started hushed rumors and tall tales.

Just a good long relaxing kind of day.

Sleeping with a smaller blanket keeps us close, but also competitors. Keeps things fun and interesting, frequently waking up sexual. Komel is a constant joy. Also, it was taco night.

Lately I've been relearning myself, Komel listening to all my old stories. Old playlists and things like thAt. Photos. People. Ten years Ago now! I haven't the energy to tell it all out, but today I made my case to the universe for the satisfactory completion of my goal here. Felt good, thorough, well spoken. Anyway.

Taking rani to Cyprus tomorrow, get her evaluated.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 5, 2014 AT 7:58 PM

So much happening! I can find the energy to write about it this week. Final prep for the 10th, which is rani's big party and sort of our unveiling from the distance everyone has perceived in us. We have been met with Challenges of vampiric energy demand from dysfunctional relationships - friends family. Everybody wants something, everybody needling in. Trevor on text. !. Adam shows up here imagininf that only he can save me from the hole he imagines me in, using obvious emotional manipulation tactics. Telling me with a dopey smile painted beneath a hipster new haircut thst he can't wait to lay black stripes up and down his Audi with a rattle can, while his girl abandons him for la and he waits for me to go so he can latch on too. My god, but To disappear for a moment into a new crowd completely!

Sean plagues me with vague texts 'u there' and every time I know it to be a warning that he has been kicked out by his girlfriend and is expecting my door to be wide open. God. He showed up at my house with his kid and little dog too, no doubt. Uninvited, only one of those tactfully ignored warning texts. Shows up here to live. Jesus.

Anyway. Komel has been battered and bruised by a series if lessons the past few weeks and I'm so blinded by my own thst I can't manage to write anything down. Turned a dreadful job offer into a flowering opportunity, proper family stickiness cleansed off, and rani is starting out at Cyprus soon. Very appropriate place for rani. And to come home from school to dusty uncle Sean and his ceaselessly hooting urchin, at home ravaging our abode while we go out to work for it.

Well not me. I would see my work grind to a halt. I work at home.

REDACTED and talk about the people we are going to be for Sunday. We invited a swarm! It's sure to be loads of fun, but I have to choose my armor, smell the earth, find my balance.

So I'll try to keep up on that at least. The rest has been moving things trough the house, like undigested bowels through the earth. Bx stuff to the garage, gray state swag tubes off to billionaire meetings in Austin, out in te mail with the eBay sales, and furniture and knock knacks and paddy wacks all on a steady march to order. More of that all week. Al wanted to bring suz and their little bitch (Lucy the dog doesn't like me and I know paleo will have my back). We deflected that too. But holy moly! She'll come along presently creaking sweetly down the hallway to exclaim over the changes and admire my decorative instincts. It's a ritual we share. I don't mind.

Lately, maybe it's from cleaning the house for too long, my imagination has been alive with crawling black visions of household places transformed into the writhing poisonous death traps they are. Dusty floors alive with tiny armored predators and prey, the nocturnal hunt. The nest of big funnel web spiders creeping through the subterranean slime of oft-used drain pipe to emerge like the steaming demons of hell from a bathtub drain opening and climb the shower curtains on their scuttling journey to the ceiling. Terrifying visions of real life survival and combat between pioneering monsters creeping and trapping and scaling heights - from any common suburban home.

SSaturday morning. The house is done inside except for a few things and I had a long day of yRdwork and prep. You're welcome rani. We serve her while we serve her while we serve her, getting poorer and crazier. She has been a mutant from hell this summer, a wailing despondent wretch intent on making every moment so miserable i can feel her hot wet energy reverberate through the halls like a buzz from the netherworld. I've felt comfortable just fucking off for now - just leave her alone. You're both better off without each other right now. Don't get close you'll only lash out and fuck something up. But then there's this party with 40 people tomorrow, 80 shoes to track dogshit through every corner of my clean house, the hiuse I've been cleaning all summer. Don't forget to feed and entertain them all for 4 hours. Oh, at least we have a good half ounce of green in hand, if it doesn't end up making things freaky.

Danny is coming. I have to convince him to sign away an empire. Sean is coming with his kid, and he gets to ask me why he's not allowed to live here. What a week. Joe is coming, and that moyherfucker is so frat-boy stupid, so monstrously lost and transparent and happily oblivious to his own spectacle, that last week I wept for him. Some of his words were so far from understanding that I folded my hands and wept tears for him in a moment of total clarity and commiseration for his tiny mind.

Mom and dad are coming. But that's old drama, slow and familiar in its workings. There are others coming, many others, but no one rani cares about except for some of her friends, who she only cares about on her good days and even then never for long.

After tomorrow we plan to retreat to summer bliss, 2-4 bowls each per day, slowly and lovingly tearing down the entrapments of our past lives and building fresh ones. By fall we will be new.

And over all of this hangs the world spinning thought that any moment this movie deal could get signed an we could become upper class. Well, i found out we bought the house the day of the martial law shoot. Maybe I'll get a nice call during the party.

Lots of yard work to do today.how readily I hurl my life's energy at the service of others - so I temember it's my yArd and nobody else is gonna pull the fuckin weeds.

My back and neck and shoulders have been so stiff for a week or two. A sign I need to focus on stretching or yoga or any other damn thing than high impact circuit training. An then yesterday morning I yakked after my 2nd set and had to dump my armor and call it wuits. That would be the first time I've ever thrown up during it after physical exercise, ever. It's too much for the willpower I have in my body right now, and the other tasks it's teserved for. So I'm stretching this morning instead.

My dreams have been weird the past few weeks. I've become alert and happy all night, stirring and waking and looking forward to the day: work, Komel, food, exercise. Sometimes I even have a burning secret knowledge to share with Komel at first light, something important I've been thinking on all night and finally solved. I haven't been able to remember it while awake yet. My waking hours seem tone experiencing a purge of subconscious thoughts and images I recognize. Old dreams, familiar fears, the stuff of nightmares from long ago passing like a wave of nostalgia. I never like those dreams; being in them I mean, but I look forward to sleep to revisit them. But they hold no power now, and lately I sense my dreams are actually places of light an wonder, but secrecy. I don't remember my dreams, only a weak cover story. I'll get to the bottom of this.

There has been so much scattered happenstance the past few days I couldn't begin to write it down. It's not all important but it's been fun. I'm finding out who I am from an experience standpoint; getting a feel for how other people experienced their five years after high shock while I was off on a breathless adventure.

I lost 14 fucking pounds without noticing. I'm down to 168, which was where I got to in Germany. Putting on my armor, my weight, the confidence suit, all pulsing muscle and vigorous hunger. Thought id step on a scale and found I'm lighter by far than I have been in 10 years. I don't eat much anymore. I'm calmer, my mind is quieter. And I'm fucking ripped. The working out has t stoped but it's no longer the manic exertion among the dripping way stations, shuffling apparitions tired eyed an slick skinned inhabit the gym sprawl. I just have a wuiet morning in my backyard and I have an 18 pack if you shine the light right. Again, I can't take credit, I've just been personality dumping, purging, shedding, moving on. The weight just got left behind.

This winter? Tattoos. Fuck yes.

Anyway. I like writing.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 2014 AT 9:13 AM

Today Komel awakens to an article about soul karma and new souls coming to be in earth. I ad read the article some time ago and was also taken by te concept of life in earth being a dangerous adventure only the brave souls volunteer for. And then there we are! But I was never convince of the idea that we were new souls. Like the ones described- from other planets and whatever.

Anyway, this had me thinking that way throughout this process. And after our chat this morning I googled the topic and found an article about soul walk-ins. Not a new soul, but a transferral. I know I was talking about this back In may as being like a changing of the guard behind my eyes, feeling like someone else was taking the drivers seat, settling in, awakening to my own gifts and strengths with renewed passion and gratitude. A soul exchange. I was trying to create my own meaning, hinge into something, so back in May or whenever i even held that mock funeral for my old self. I let him die for gods sake. Maybe all that meant something, and the new me is clicking with knowledge and wisdom and wrath of the gods. Beautiful.

That trauma I saw July 26, whatever it really was - there was that moment when I perceived that I was far from all help and that I was alone in the world, cut off from the guiding light of the place where I came from - to me in the moment it felt as if, maybe, Christ on the cross when god himself looked away. Allegory, story, fact, I do not know, but if there is a reference there for me in relation to this soul exchange business, it's that the transferral process of the new me was completed then, and I am now on my own.

I look back in awe at the discipline of my past selves to deliver this body to me. I was preserved for a purpose, always foregoing pleasures for hard work, in order to serve a higher purpose in myself, but I feel that purpose is now. Right now. and I remember the feeling of that divine prtextion lifted. To be cut loose. I haven't forgotten the lesson, but I suppose I am in a sort of metaphysical fetal position, resting, mourning my loss. Jesus you guys, I couldn't see any of it with my eyes but it is utter beauty and peace. This place, our earth, is like an back alley Parisian brothel by comparison. And here we all are, churning in the chaotic stew of errant desire and unlimited material possibility. You gotta have guts to live here, to submit to the chaos. Everyone here is a brother, a fighter, a precious piece of biological equipment to be awakened with conciosiness to do good in the world, and by our very presence recerse the cycle of negativity that has our world in such turmoil.

This is what gets my heart thumping, because I haven't written gray state yet. Not its final form. This is my purpose. This film will b the history changer everyone needs it to be. And I don't have the damn thing on paper yet.

I have strained and strained the past 10 years to force a new universe to appear. It has change from its original vision, but to the better across the board. And all I have to do is write down the thing I am intended to create, without fear, at te moment where the pressure for success is massive and acute. Thank god for marijuana. Because talk about pressure. It takes an invisible till. Don't think it's real? How might a better man cope with his own daily stressors?

Coors?

The moment of my purpose has arrived. And if the universe awaits my consent for the go ahead then I say do your worst you filthy sticky bitch, I know you're going to reward and seduce me before killing off wha I love an burying what I build and destroying me as awfully as possible in horrible retribution for having thrust my ability so far into your black void that generations hence will still be expanding on what I started, settling te void, conquering the dark, until te greater objective is served. Whatever it is; it's not our time to see it. But I will submit to this will, the higher ultimate purpose, and use my energies to see it to its end. I await the necessary personal considerations, and then I will begin to create stories to redirect a disgruntled and demoralized humanity back to the joy of its origins, to see again the bright purpose for its future.

The idea is I get them reinvigorated, set up a meeting, fly in with my lawyer and face to face this thing over steak in LA.

I just haven't heard from them yet. And I just wonder. Maybe they took the weekend to read it or maybe they're sick of me. I can not tell, but I have every positive sign from the universe at my back.

I'll call them tomorrow with a pitch.

Danny is still stone walling me on the release document. I do not care; if e wants to burn up his energy, fine. I am getting my legal ship in order; an expensive ordeal. Bx is mostly gone. Mitch and I are amicable, and he signed his release which was the big thing all along.

Remember yesterday when you saw it was 3:33 and you realized you were munching an apple that Komel had just given you?

Last night 8-1230, our garden of gethsemane

We are cast out of Eden
